The Esprit Collection

The all new 'Esprit' from Villager is the first of a new generation of stoves designed to meet the demands of modern, energy conscious consumers and bring a new look and style to the Villager range.

Villager has developed new technology to assist in the ease-of-use and efficiency of these new stoves. The technology includes the new riddling grate, which is now controlled from the front, and also tertiary burn. The Esprit is available in both multifuel and wood versions and boast the largest fire viewing area yet, together with curved glass and curved sides to give a clean, modern appearance.
